

I don't agree with the ARRL filing for restructuring pushing all no code techs and novice classes into The General Class License. As a NTS Traffic Handler we get enough tuning up whistling and noise on the frequencies now. A big portion of these no code techs are running illegal 11 meter stations and are very happy doing so with their 200 w to 1000 w amps they are not what we need in the hardest working class of Amateurs. Give them 10 meters as a code tech and bring the code techs into the General Ranks if u want. But to lop all techs to General is a Bad Move. I do agree with grandfathering Advanced to Extra. Hopefully I'll have my extra class when all this comes about and can escape the insanity sure to follow. Respectfully in service,
